Mosquitoes collected in one of the twelve traps in Aberdeen Proving Ground's Aberdeen Area Aug. 4 tested positive for West Nile Virus according to U.S. Army Center for Health Promotion and Preventive Medicine-North at Fort Meade.

The Maryland Department of Health was notified.

The trap containing the infected mosquitoes was in the Field Training Exercise location of the Aberdeen Area.

APG preventive medicine personnel regularly trap mosquitoes and send them to CHPPM-North for West Nile Virus testing.

Mosquitoes are common in our area and can carry organisms that cause worrisome diseases, such as West Nile Virus. This virus has been found in mosquitoes across the country.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, less than one percent of all mosquitoes carry

WNV.

Most infected people experience mild flu-like symptoms for a few days and then recover. In a small number of cases, particularly among the elderly, WNV may lead to more serious nerve diseases such as encephalitis and meningitis, and it also can be fatal.

As of Aug. 10, approximately 500 people have been infected with West Nile virus across the country this year, with 10 fatalities due to the disease.

Pest management personnel at APG have been working to control mosquitoes in the area, but there are also ways that everyone can help.

By taking simple precautions to lessen your chance of being bitten by a mosquito, you can lessen your chance of getting West Nile virus. Avoid being outdoors during peak times when mosquitoes are active, mainly from sunset to sunrise. Wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants when possible. When going outdoors, use insect repellents that contain 25-35% DEET. Be sure to follow the instructions on the package. Repellents may irritate the eyes and mouth, so avoid applying repellent to the hands of children. Insect repellent should not be applied to children less than 3 years old.

Residents of APG can help control the mosquitoes by removing any standing water near their homes. Mosquitoes lay their eggs in standing water. Even a small amount of water, for example, in a saucer under a flower pot, is enough to act as a breeding source.

Empty water-collecting items such as buckets, tires, flower pots, kiddie pools, wrinkled tarps, and bird baths.

Store buckets and other water-collecting items upside down. Use a yellow light bulb on your porch, which is less attractive to flying insects.

APG's pest management personnel continue working to eliminate mosquito breeding sites in the housing areas, field training sites, and recovery areas. Pesticides are also being used to control the mosquitoes.

Larvicide application has been extended to standing water in remote marshes and swamps of APG populated areas. The larvicide is non-toxic to humans and animals. It kills the mosquitoes before they become adults. The larvicide has been working well, as shown by the low numbers of adult mosquitoes in many of the treated areas.

Women's Equality Day recognizes FWP supporters

APG News

Aberdeen Proving Ground's Federal Women's Program held its annual Women's Equality Day award ceremony at Top of the Bay Aug. 11.

Charlotte Albro, of the U.S. Army Edgewood Biological Chemical Center was named the Outstanding Woman of the Year; the U.S. Army Materiel Systems Analysis Activity was named Organization. Most Supportive of FWP Goals; and AMSAA's Clarke J. Fox was named the Supervisor/Manager of the Year.

The annual celebration recognizes individuals and organizations for their commitment to the goals of the Federal Women's Program.

FWP chairperson Sheryl Coleman, U.S. Army Research Laboratory, and Diane Siler, U.S. Army Research, Development and Engineering Command's FWP manager, hosted the program.

AAMSA director David Shaffer accepted the award for the organization. He said the AAMSA leadership takes pride in its personnel for more than just the work they do.

"We're proud of our people but beyond that, we have a group of very caring people," Shaffer said. "We are humbled and proud to be a part of AAMSA and we thank you for this honor."

Fox credited Shaffer and AAMSA employees with ensuring the organization remains full of opportunities. "This is simply a great honor," he said. "All of our branch chiefs and directors are fully deserving of this award."

Albro, unable to attend the ceremony, expressed herself in an acceptance letter read by Siler.

"I'm truly honored and quite humbled to be nominated the APG FWP Outstanding Woman of the Year for 2004," she said. "I share this award with everyone."

Special guests included Maj. Gen. John C. Doesburg, commander of APG and RDECOM, and Michelle Ridge, national spokesperson for the Channing Bete Company's Communities That Care prevention planning system.

Doesburg compared the Women's Army Corps trailblazers who struggled for equality, to women in uniform today who stand ready. He said that while visiting injured soldiers from Iraq arriving at Andrews Air Force Base, he met a female soldier with burns over 30 percent of her body.

"She was only interested in one thing and that was going back to Iraq, because she was a part of a team," Doesburg said.

He introduced Ridge as someone with whom he had much in common and read her biography of personal accomplishments.

Family Child Care children played in the water and sampled cultural foods at the 'Caribbean Sun Splash' held Aug. 9 in the Harbor Court housing area.

"We're just giving the children a chance to experience the Jamaican culture," said Sherry Johnson, Family Child Care provider and coordinator of the event.

Children sampled plates of curry and fried chicken, yellow saffron rice and cole slaw.

"Both kinds of the chicken were good. The cake was good too," said Dante Walker, FCC child.

Snacks and desserts included green bananas, mango, paw-paw fruit, fresh coconut, mango juice, carrot cake, and fruit cups, which included pineapple and mango.

"We had everything tropical you'd find in Jamaica," Johnson said.

The children danced to

Caribbean and Reggae music wearing leis of assorted tropical colors, including green and yellow, which are two of the three colors of the Jamaican flag that came into use 42 years ago on Aug. 6, 1962, Jamaica's Independence Day.

The island of Jamaica has 120 rivers, including the Rio Grande in Port Antonio which is the birthplace of bamboo rafting, according to the Caribbean Connoisseur's Web site: <http://www.caribcon.com>.

Johnson included water games and tables for children to play in during the event to represent the feeling of being on an island in the Caribbean.

"We had lots of fun," said Hannah and her brother Jacob Gilmore, FCC children.

"The festivities were above and beyond. The food was phenomenal," said Jennelle Ferguson, FCC parent. "It was a very vibrant day and the theme was great."

Army Health Clinic preventive medicine personnel placed light traps (clear plastic tube with a light bulb and battery-powered fan) and gravid traps (plastic basin with fluid and a pipe containing a fan) throughout the Edgewood and Aberdeen areas to monitor the density of the mosquito population.

If you see these traps, please leave them in place.

If a trap shows a sufficient rise in the number of mosquitoes, pesticide fogging will be scheduled for that area.

Residents will receive advance notice so they and their pets can stay indoors and limit their exposure to the chemical.

Residents will also need to park their vehicle away from the fogging route when the fogging truck drives through the area.

As a precautionary measure, do not follow the fogger truck under any circumstances.

Fogging has already begun and will continue in the Aberdeen Area housing areas beginning at 6 p.m. on Tuesdays, and in the Edgewood Area housing areas beginning at 6 p.m. on Thursdays.

FTX areas will be done on alternate Mondays and, upon notification, training areas will be done a few days prior to scheduled training.

Fogging will not be done in rain or high winds, and swimming pool areas will not be fogged.

Birds can become infected with West Nile Virus. An infected bird will die after a few days, so the spread of WNV is tracked through testing dead birds that are in suitable condition.

Residents and workers on the installation can help pest management personnel by reporting the location of these dead birds to Pest Control at 410-278-3303.

Anyone who finds a dead bird should not touch the bird. Trained personnel will pick it up for testing.

If planning an outdoor activity, call 410-278-3303 for fogging times. For more information, visit the West Nile Virus Precautionary Guide Website at http://rcwrecovery.fws.gov/wnv_guide.htm or call the West Nile Virus State Hotline at 1-866-866-CROW.

Veterans' voices

Enlisted retirees gain voice through TREA

Story and photos by Yvonne Johnson APG News

Much like retired officers, a national organization exists which offers enlisted retirees a powerful voice for veterans' rights as well as a shared commitment to better their communities.

Thousands of enlisted retirees have found camaraderie and fellowship in The Retired Enlisted Association, or TREA.

It was founded in 1963 by two Air Force retirees, Master Sgts. George Skonce and Dean Sorell. They realized that they and their fellow retirees had no voice in the corridors of power to stand up for their hard-earned rights and promised benefits.

Today, TREA has grown to become the most influential organization working to protect and ensure the health and welfare of all military personnel, especially retirees. There are 75 chapters nationwide including two in Maryland, Chapter 9 in Baltimore and Chapter 24 in Fort Meade. Both are actively involved in promoting projects that serve their communities and maintain an active presence among legislators in Annapolis and Washington, D.C.

On May 22, members of Chapter 9, led by president Michael Gales, held a fish fry fundraiser at the Morgan State Alpha Psi Omega Fraternity House in West Baltimore. Dozens of local residents enjoyed eat-in and carryout meals offered by the TREA membership and its Ladies Auxiliary.

Gales, a retired sergeant first class from Baltimore, said the chapter works with other community service and veteran organizations to enhance their neighborhoods and benefits for veterans and active-duty service members.

"Monies we raise go toward programs for hospitalized veterans, or to assist our sister organizations like the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars," Gales said.

He noted that most members hold memberships in all three organizations, which share many of the same interests.

"The difference is, TREA is the voice of the enlisted service member just like MOAA [Military Officers Association of America] is for officers. With our numbers we cannot be ignored where it counts, on Capitol Hill," he said.

More than a few Chapter 9 members are World War II, Korea and Vietnam veterans.

Gales said the chapter is actively seeking new members and invites any interested veterans to attend a monthly meeting or visit the TREA Web site, <http://www.trea.org>, to learn more about the organization.

"We're moving deeper into the 21st century now and we would really like to have more Desert Storm era veterans especially female veterans," Gales said.

TREA membership is open to:

- Any enlisted person

retired from an active or reserve component of the armed forces, either for length of service or permanent medical disability.

- Any retired member advanced to warrant or commissioned officer status, either through recall to active duty or on the retired list, who continues to pay annual dues.

- Any active duty, reserve, or National Guard enlisted person with 10 or more years of retirement creditable service. (Life membership may be withdrawn if the member does not subsequently retire from the armed forces).

Associate membership is open to:

- Any surviving spouse of a deceased regular member or non-member who was eligible at the time of death. Associate members shall enjoy all privileges and benefits of regular membership except the right to make motions, vote, hold office, or life membership.

TREA's national president is retired Master Sgt. David "Dave" Washington who has been a TREA member since 1986. Washington has served on the national board of directors since 1998. He has chaired numerous National Committees including the Bylaws and Standing Rules Committee and the Scholarship Committee. Between 1998-99 he was a National Director and progressed through the ranks of office.

Washington is a member of Aurora, Colo., Chapter 3.

Chapter 9 meets the first Saturday of the month at the Maryland Army National Guard 5th Regiment Armory in Baltimore, 3 p.m. For more information, write TREA, P.O. Box 98187, Washington, D.C., 20077-7410, visit the Web site at <http://www.trea.org>, or call Michael Gales at 410-653-2957, FAX 410-486-7655, or e-mail him at mgailes3636@aol.com.

Visiting schools

Parents are invited to visit their child's school at any time to observe classes in session and talk with teachers and other members of the school staff. In order to ensure that those persons with whom parents wish to talk are available, it is advisable to call the school and make an appointment in advance of the visit.

In the fall of each year, all county public schools observe American Education Week and make a special effort to encourage parents and other citizens to visit the schools. All visitors must register in the main office and receive a visitor's badge.

The 2004-2005 school year opens for students kindergarten through 12th grade on Monday, Aug. 30, and for pre-k students, Wednesday, Sept. 1. Monday, Sept. 6 is the Labor Day holiday and all schools and offices will be closed.

With the start of school come local school orientations, 'back to school night,' and PTA. Parents should get involved and support their child's education by actively participating in these functions. It's the best investment they can make in your child's education. (See box below for a list of school orientations and open houses.)

Schools routinely contact parents when children are absent or tardy in order to protect the safety and welfare of the students.

Food and nutrition

All Harford County Public Schools offer breakfast and lunch programs. Menus are distributed through schools, published in local newspapers, announced over local radio and television, and are on the Harford County Public Schools Web site.

Student price for breakfast is $1.05; lunch for elementary students costs $1.50 and lunch for secondary students costs $1.60.

All menu items plus additional snack items are available for sale separately (i.e. milk- $.30, bottled water- $.65, ice cream- $.50, etc.)

Emergency school closing

Any change from the normal school schedule as a result of inclement weather (snow, ice, floods, heat, etc.) will be communicated to radio and television stations and broadcast to the public. Parents are urged to listen to their local radio or television station for weather updates and school closures (also visit the HCPS Web site or call the HCPS switchboard at 410-838-7300).

Help for students with special needs

There are a variety of means to provide help for children with special needs. They include special education classes, health services, guidance, speech therapy, school psychology, psychology, English as a second language, pupil personnel work and programs for the gifted and talented.

At the school level the teacher, counselor, school nurse or health technician, speech therapist, and school administrators assist students with everyday problems. Specialized personnel such as pupil personnel workers and psychologists are (???) invited into the school to assist with more complex student problems.

Specialized education programs are provided for those students with mental, physical, or emotional needs that cannot be met in the regular classroom. Such classes are conducted in elementary and secondary schools for students who are mildly mentally limited.

The John Archer School provides a variety of instructional programs that are designed for children who have significant learning problems. These problems are generally caused by communicative disorders, learning disabilities, mental limitation, or physical disabilities.

Instruction at home is made available to students who, because of medical or emotional reasons, are unable to attend school. Home teachers are employed for homebound youngsters. Parents who feel that their child may have need of special services should contact the child's school or the Student Services office at 410-588-5334.

Safety

DLES recommends "back to school" safety tips

DLES

The start of the 2004-2005 school year is quickly approaching. Children are preparing to head back to school on Aug. 30.

"The safety of our children is everybody's responsibility," said Community Policing Officer Elizabeth Wooten.

The APG Police would like to recommend some "Back to School Safety Tips" for the APG community.

Check the bus stop area for hazards and report discrepancies to the APG Police at 410-306-0565. The APG Police will insure the proper agency is contacted to resolve the issue.

Have a safe place for children to wait for the bus, away from traffic.

Instruct children to:

- Stay away from the bus until it comes to a complete stop. Stand back from the curb and line up nicely.
- Use the handrail while entering and exiting the bus.
- Sit down in the seat and refrain from distracting the bus driver.
- Always wait for the bus to stop before getting up from the seat.
- After exiting the bus, always take five giant steps away from it so the driver can see them.
- Children should be aware of street traffic around them. Drivers are required to follow certain rules of the road concerning buses.

- Report any suspicious activity in the area.
- Instruct children to never take a ride from someone they do not know.
- Children should be at the bus stop one minute before the bus arrives.
- If somebody is always bothering you at the bus stop or on the bus, even after they have been asked to stop, tell the driver or your parents.
- If a belonging rolls under the bus, stay out of the danger zone and tell the driver right away.

What children should know

Emergency exits. Be observant and know where the exits are. In a real emergency, listen to the bus driver for instructions.

A crossing control arm is mounted on the front bumper and will swing out when the door is opened. It is designed to keep children from walking close to the front of the bus.

Danger zone (front): It's never safe to walk close to the front of the bus. The bus driver may be sitting up too high to see a child. Walk five giant steps ahead of the bus before crossing in front of it.

Danger zone (sides):

Remember never walk close to the side of a school bus. Stay at least five giant steps away from the side. The child may be in the bus driver's blind spot.

Danger zone (behind bus): Never walk behind a school bus. The driver will not be able to see a child.

Walking area: When getting off the bus make sure to walk (not run) three more steps away from the door. This is the best place to be around a bus. Stay away from the bus wheels and watch out for moving cars.

Children should be prepared and have an emergency plan.

Children should know emergency numbers, have a neighbors house they can go to, etc.

If children are left home alone after school, ensure compliance with the "Supervision of Children Home Alone Policy." (See page 24)

Anyone with questions or concerns should call Wooten at 410-306-0561.

School bus safety quiz

Promoting backpack common sense

Marcie Birk
CHPPM

Backpacks are great for carrying more than can be carried in the arms and hands alone. And, for children, backpacks help to keep important books and papers organized.

However, overloaded backpacks can cause headache along with neck, back and arm pain. In addition, constantly carrying a backpack over one shoulder makes muscles of the middle back, ribs, and lower back strain to compensate for the uneven weight.

In the short term, this strain can cause muscle spasms and back pain. In the long term, this muscle imbalance can lead to back problems later in life.

Parents can take steps to help reduce the chance that their child or teen will risk injury from carrying a backpack.

Recommended backpack design features-

- lightweight material (canvas as opposed to leather)
- two padded, adjustable shoulder straps at least 2-inches wide,
- padded back,
- individualized compartments.

Teach children how to properly load and wear the backpack-

- Pack heaviest objects first so they are lower and closer to the body.

- Use compartments so items don't shift during movement.

- Distribute the load evenly throughout the backpack.
- Use both shoulder straps.
- Adjust straps to fit the backpack snugly to the body, holding the bottom of the backpack two inches above the waist.

- Do not carry the backpack low near the buttocks.

Use common sense-

- Train children to clean out backpacks at least once a week.

- Watch to make sure children aren't leaning forward when walking with the backpack.

- Ask children if they have any back aches or pains.

- Encourage children to carry to and from school only those items needed.

- Consider buying a copy of the heaviest books to keep at home.

Reading to children

The CYS School Liaison/Youth Education office has 'Read aloud reading

tips for parents' at APG.

As stated in "Becoming A Nation of Readers: The Report of the Commission on Reading," "the single most important activity for building the knowledge required for eventual success in reading is reading aloud to children...parents play roles of inestimable importance in laying the foundation in learning to read."

A daily 'read aloud time' is an excellent way to ensure a child's reading success. Some of the benefits of reading aloud to children are:

- Enriches the time spent with the child and creates a bond between the child and reader
- Improves listening comprehension
- Expands the child's attention span
- Builds vocabulary
- Exposes the child to good grammar
- Broadens the child's experiences and information
- Stimulates imagination
- Promotes critical thinking skills
- Often teaches values
- Helps build confidence and proper self-esteem.

Reading tips

Tip # 1, How to Read to Children of all Ages: Select books that reflect a child's own experiences, such as books about daily life, family members or animals. Expose children to books they can touch. Encourage children to choose the book(s) you read.

Read books having rhyme, rhythm, or repetition, because the sound of language is especially important to infants who cannot yet focus on pictures. Use different voices for different characters or emotions. Ask questions about pictures or characters in the book. Have children describe what they see. Have children tell reader what they think will happen next in the story.

Tip # 2, Benefits of Reading Aloud: This creates a bond between the child and the reader; improves listening comprehension; expands the child's attention span; builds vocabulary; exposes the child to good grammar; broadens the child's experiences and information; stimulates the imagination; promotes critical thinking skills; often teaches values and builds confidence.

Tip # 3, What Parents and Caregivers Can Do: Keep good books, magazines, and newspapers in the house; make reading part of the daily routine; read to and with children each day for at least 20 to 30 minutes; discuss each book that read together; talk with children during mealtimes and throughout the day; tell children stories; let children draw or paint; limit television viewing and monitor what the child watches; explore the local library with children; show children that reading is a fun, lifelong activity; find out about summer programs in the community. (Maryland State Department of Education, see also the following Web site www.msde.state.md.us).

Anyone interested in becoming a part of the reading club, network or make the commitment to read aloud to children at least three to four times each week, should call Ivan Mehosky at 410-278-2857.

Financial Aid 101

Different types of financial aid are available to help pay for college.

Grants and scholarships are funds that don't have to be repaid. They are based on financial need, merit, special activities or a combination, and are provided by the federal government, schools and private sponsors.

Work-study programs are set up to help the student earn financial aid by working on or off campus.

The federal government offers a variety of low-interest loans that have to be paid back over time such as the Stafford Loan, the Perkins Loan (for students with exceptional financial need), and the Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students.

The Corporation for National Service offers funding in exchange for volunteer service. Visit www.cns.gov to learn more.

Tuition payment plans are available at different schools that split tuition costs into monthly payments.

Other ideas worth checking include military service and local community colleges.

CDC provides kindergarten and pre-school care

CDC

The Aberdeen Proving Ground Child Development centers provide before and after school meals, transportation to some area schools and a learning atmosphere that mirrors local school curriculum.

Many children enrolled in the Aberdeen and Edgewood Area CDCs attend kindergarten or pre-school at Royce Williams Elementary School in the Aberdeen Area and Edgewood Elementary in the Edgewood Area.

Children who attend these schools are transported from the CDC to school on Harford

County school buses.

Children who are enrolled in other schools must be transported to their schools by their parents.

Meals are only one part of the services provided by the CDC.

"Children are served breakfast before leaving the centers by 8:15 a.m.," said Ruth Strauss, director, AA CDC. "Pre-K children receive lunch upon returning at 11:45 a.m. and afternoon snacks are provided for all children."

Various activities are planned for all the children prior to leaving the centers in the morning and upon their return in the afternoons as well as the days when school is out.

"The Aberdeen Proving Ground Child Development centers strive to enhance the learning that takes place in Harford County schools by providing a variety of activities and materials that are age appropriate and reflect their interests," Strauss said.

Parents are responsible for enrollment in the school and to notify them of their child's attendance in the Child and Youth Services-CDC program.

For more information, call the AA CDC at 410-278-5748 or the EA CDC at 410-436-2692.

ARMY COMMUNITY SERVICE

'SKILLS' program boosts learning process

Story and photos by
Yvonne Johnson
APG News

Among the many services available to the military, civilian and retired members of the Aberdeen Proving Ground community, Army Community Service offers a program specifically designed to help children function to their highest potential in school.

The program, known as "Strategies for Kids: Increasing Learning and Living Skills," or SKILLS, offers educational assessments, individual education plans, one-on-one tutoring and group tutoring.

Vicki Whitaker, a reading specialist with a master's in education, administers the program, which is overseen by Reeshemah Bugg, Exceptional Family Member Program coordinator.

"This is not a homework help program," Whitaker said, "It's to help you focus on your weak areas and work on improvement."

The course runs year round, and is open to youths from first grade to high school or any youth at least two years behind their reading level.

Contracted with ACS about 10 years, Whitaker is the educational director at the Highlands School, a private institute of learning in northern Harford County. She tutors youths enrolled in the program twice weekly.

She said the program focuses on achieving grade level reading skills rather than grade improvement.

In addition, a math instructor also tutors during the school year.

"Students achieve success when they can read and comprehend on their grade level," she said, adding the program consistently receives positive feedback from parents.

"They often say the program has really made a difference," Whitaker said.

"SKILLS has many success stories," Bugg added. "Children who are enrolled in EFMP have benefited from this free service. I encourage all parents who have children struggling in the areas of reading and math to take advantage of this service."

SKILLS training is held in ACS building 2752, 4:30 to 7 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays, depending on the number of students.

ACS offers babysitting training, services

ACS

It's back to school time again and parents will probably be invited to PTA meetings, parent/teacher conferences, open houses or just need a night out.

If so, there's a good chance a babysitter will be called upon.

While the sitter's age, experience and maturity are important factors in selecting who to look after the children, someone should be selected who also knows how to keep the children safe from injury.

Interviewing the babysitter

It is not uncommon for parents to feel anxious when hiring a babysitter. Interview prospective babysitters before deciding on one is one method to eliminate stress.

The APG Supervision of Children Policy recommends asking the following questions in the interview:

- Have they completed the American Red Cross Babysitting Safety Course offered through Army Community Service and Child and Youth Services?

- Is the sitter at least 13 years of age and responsible enough to care for the child?

- Is the sitter experienced and reliable?

- Does he or she have references?

- Is the sitter certified in infant and child cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR)?

- Is the sitter willing to accept your guidelines in taking care of your child?

- Does the sitter understand the importance of watching a child at all times?

- Does the sitter know what to do in case of an emergency?

What every parent should tell their sitter

- Give the babysitter a tour of the home. Inform the sitter of the safety precautions that have been taken, point out the baby gates, child resistant locks, smoke alarms, carbon monoxide detectors, electrical outlet covers, etc. Show the sitter where phones, first aid supplies, fire extinguishers, flashlights and extra blankets are located. These items may be helpful should there be an emergency.

- Write down emergency telephone numbers and leave them by all telephones. Make sure the babysitter knows the locations of these lists. The lists should contain phone numbers of where the parent can be reached, the fire department, police department, poison control center, ambulance or emergency services, the child's doctor and hospital, a neighbor and a relative.

- Map out the approved play areas in the home. Make sure the sitter knows which rooms and sections of rooms are off limits to the children - especially infants and toddlers.

- Instruct the sitter never to leave the child alone - even for a second. There is no substitute for constant supervision.

- Show the sitter where the child's protective gear is stored. If the child is allowed to bike ride, skateboard or inline skate while the parents are away, make sure the sitter knows where to find the child's helmet, knee pads and other protective gear, and insist the child wears them.

American Red Cross Babysitting Safety

Course

Army Community Service and Child and Youth Service offers the American Red Cross Babysitting Course throughout the year to children ages 11 years and older. However, only children 13 years and older will be certified to babysit on post.

After completing the course, all children 13 years and older need to receive written permission from their parents to be placed on the Babysitter's Referral List.

The next American Red Cross Babysitting Safety Course is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Sept. 16, at ACS. For more information or to register, contact Diana Hayes, Parents and Children Together coordinator, 410-278-4372.

How the Babysitter's Referral List works:

- A parent calls Outreach Services at 410-278-7479 and states they are looking for a certified babysitter to watch their children.

- Outreach Services asks what age or gender sitter they prefer and then gives them a name from the list.

- It is the responsibility of the parent to interview the babysitter and determine if he or she is suitable for the care of their children for the allotted time they will be gone.

For starters, USDA-approved breakfasts, lunches (on school-out and summer-camp days) and afternoon snacks are included. This means healthy, nutritional and delicious menus approved by nutritionist Paula Diamond.

Youths are guaranteed age-appropriate fun and educational opportunities. In other words, we'll offer a variety of activities and programs for your son/daughter to choose from - from crafts and music to sports and technology, and swimming and weekly field trips during the Summer Camp.

Finally, there's peace of mind. By enrolling your child in our camp, you don't have to worry. You know where they are and what they're doing. You know that background checks have been performed on all of the adult staff. In other words, you know your son/daughter is safe.

The first step is registration. Your child must be an active CYS Member in order to participate (annual membership registration is only $18/child or $40/family). You can become a member, register for camp or even a field trip, by contacting Central Registration, 410-278-7479/7571. Youth Sponsorship Military families usually relocate every few years. It's a tough time for everyone, leaving somewhere familiar for places unknown. Youth Sponsorship is all about making the transitions easier and less stressful. If your family is moving to APG, call, write, or drop us an email to let us know when you're coming. We'll answer your questions and help your children meet some of their peers and make friends before they arrive. Visit us so we can show you around our facilities and introduce you to everyone. We want to welcome you to our family.

If you're leaving APG, we will help you research your new location via the Internet, and help you contact the Youth Center at your future home so you have friends waiting for you there.

Sports & Fitness

APG offers a wide variety of instructional classes, team sports and clinics to participate in through the year. Many of these activities are seasonal or offered in sessions. For more information contact Bill Kegley, 410-306-2297, or email William.Kegley@usag.apg.army.mil.

Open Recreation

Whether it's a scheduled activity or self-directed, there's always something to do at Youth Services. We offer arts and crafts, cooking projects, movie nights, board games, cards, video games, and a game room with pool, foosball, and air hockey tables. There is also a library of CD's and movies available for checkout. For our reading youths, we've got subscriptions to some of today's popular teen magazines.

Workforce Preparation

There are many ways to help prepare our young people to enter the workforce. The youth centers offer classes on resume writing, dressing for success, interviewing techniques and money management. In addition we'll assist them in researching information on admission requirements, financial aid and majors offered at colleges and universities.

Community Service

Whether it's making valentine's day cards, picking up trash, or helping someone with homework, no one is too old or too young to give back to the community. Volunteer teen assistant coaches, tutors and computer lab assistants are examples of non-paid positions available. In addition, there are scheduled community service projects during the year. Volunteer hours are logged and entered into the Promise Passport Program to help volunteers track community service hours to satisfy a community service hours requirement for high school graduation, to qualify for the Presidential Freedom Scholarship, or to meet personal goals.

Homework Center

Youth Services takes advantage of its partnership with the Boys and Girls Clubs of America by offering two outstanding programs from its Project Learn Initiative, POWER HOUR: Making Minutes Count, and The Ultimate Journey.

Throughout the school year, elementary and middle school students can check out POWER HOUR: Making Minutes Count. The POWER HOUR is an engaging homework-help and tutoring program offered to help young people develop the daily habit of completing their homework and studying in a quiet, dedicated place with adult support. Tutoring assistance is available by appointment for students who need additional work in special areas.

In addition, the Education Lab contains resources to help high school students prepare for educational opportunities beyond graduation. For more information about the Education Lab - in AA call Lisanne Blake, 410-278-4995 - in EA call Daniel McCoy, 410-436-2098.

Teen Councils and More

APG's youth centers are recognized chapters of the Boys and Girls Clubs of America which enables both centers to offer the same clubs and curriculums that you would find in a Boys and Girls Club. Here are examples of some of the arts, health and life-skills, as well as some of the character and leadership development programs offered.

Torch Club

Torch Clubs are chartered small-group leadership and service clubs for boys and girls ages 11-13 focusing on character development. A Torch Club is a powerful vehicle through which Club staff can help meet the special needs of younger adolescents at a critical stage in their development. Torch Club members learn to elect officers and work together to plan and implement activities in four areas - service to Club and community, education, health and fitness and social recreation. Meetings are every other Friday at 4:30 pm.

TEENSUPREME Keystone Club

Keystoning is the Boys and Girls Club movement's most dynamic teen program. Keystone Clubs are chartered small-group leadership and service clubs for boys and girls ages 14-18. Keystoners elect officers and plan and implement their own activities in six areas - service to Club and community, leadership development, education and career exploration, unity, free enterprise and social recreation. Keystone Club members and their advisors are eligible for nomination to steering committees which organize regional and national TEENSUPREME Keystone Conferences attended by thousands of Keystoners each year. Meetings are every Thursday at 6:30 pm. For more information - in the AA call Angela Gittings, 410-278-4995 - in the EA call Catherine Hanlon, 410-436-2098.

Youth of the Year Program

Boys and Girls Clubs of America's premier youth recognition program promotes and celebrates Aberdeen Youth Services' members' service to club, community and family; academic performance; moral character; life goals and poise and public speaking ability. The Youth of the Year program is most effective when used as a year-round tool for fostering young people's personal growth and leadership qualities. Aberdeen Youth Services conducts a local Youth of the Year competition in December, the winner then participates in state competition in late February/early March. State winners participate in regional competition. Five regional winners each receive a $5,000 scholarship and compete on the national level. The National Youth of the Year receives an additional $10,000 scholarship and is installed by the President of the United States. For more information - in the AA call Angela Gittings, 410-278-4995 - in the EA call Catherine Hanlon, 410-436-2098.

Child care

To find out more about child care, call Central Registry at 410-278-7571 to find out about spaces available during the school year and in the summer Child Development Centers, School Age Services, Before/After School, Middle School Before/After School and Family Child Care programs in both areas of APG.

Parent Advisory Group

If your child is enrolled in the Before/After School programs offered through either the School Age Services or Middle School Program, you are eligible to be a member of the MS/SAS Parent Advisory Group. School Liaison/Youth Education

New program coming soon to CYS-'K12'

Ivan Mehosky
School Liaison/Youth Education Services

For years, parents have been asking, "is there a quality, easy to administer tutoring or enrichment program for my son or daughter who is struggling with 3rd grade math?"

The answer is yes, now there is, and it's called K12.

"The best feature is that it has both math and language arts curriculum for students kindergarten through 5th grades, whether they are having difficulty, are on level, or want to excel, the program is designed to enhance learning from the regular school classroom," said Sandy Fallon, K12 enrichment coordinator. "It is an ideal after-school enrichment program interested parents will want to learn more about."

What is K12?

K12 Inc. is an education company that provides a comprehensive, standards-based curriculum and learning program, innovative instructional tools, and top-quality management services to schools, youth centers and clubs, after school programs and home school programs across America.

Using traditional materials and innovative technology, K12 works with educators and parents to deliver a comprehensive academic program.

K12 Home School

A Permanent Change of Station doesn't have to mean a permanent change of school for children. With K12's curriculum and learning tools for grades K through 8, school and learning goes with the family, even during temporary duty travel.

The K12 Home School program provides everything necessary to educate students at home, from lessons and materials to planning tools and assessments. K12 currently has programs for students from kindergarten through eighth grade.

Parents can chose the appropriate grade level for each student in each subject. They can even mix and match grade levels for different subjects to suit the student's level of development.

The K12 program provides tools that allow students to work at their own pace, so the program works for students who need extra time to master a subject, and for those who learn quickly.

Parents spend about three hours over the course of a five-hour day directly teaching students. During the remaining time, students will read or engage in other study activities.

Students in grades K through 5 do about 15 to 30 percent of the work online.

As students get older, instruction and activities involve increased computer use, according to educational standards.

APG K12 After-School Enrichment-Tutoring Program Aberdeen Proving Ground's Child and Youth Services will be one of the first innovative after-school programs to use K12 to enhance public school education.

Children need not be enrolled in the after-school program at the youth center to take advantage of this opportunity.

Many children need extra help in certain areas in school. By enrolling in K12 after-school, children will receive dynamic academic instruction in language arts and/or math.

"This will appeal to those children who need extra help, as well as high-achieving children who would benefit from supplementing their public school education with challenging work," Fallon said.

The lessons are custom selected for each child's ability, based on placement test results.

Members of the Aberdeen and Edgewood Youth centers staff will receive training to administer K12 lessons to children in grades K-5 after school and evenings.

Parents will be encouraged to monitor their child's progress by logging onto the online school from home.

There will be sign-ups at each youth center starting Sept. 13. Based upon interest, parent orientation meetings will be scheduled at both youth centers and announced in the APG News.

The K12 After School Enrichment Program is targeted to start October 2004.

The people behind K12

William J. Bennett, along with other leaders in education, founded K12 in 1999. The former U.S. Secretary of Education, renowned speaker, author of The Educated Child, and editor of The Book of Virtues and The Children's Book of Virtues, Bennett's goal is to create a first-rate, traditional program in education.

In his books and in the development of the K12 curriculum, Bennett takes a traditional, back-to-basics approach to education. He believes that everyone should be able to secure a quality education for their children. With K12's comprehensive curriculum and programs, his goal is to make K12 attainable for all families seeking an education program that augments and enriches local school curriculums.

K12 lesson development

Lesson content is the backbone of the K12 curriculum. Creating content and turning it into interesting, effective lessons is the domain of the K12 lesson development team.

Curriculum specialists and lesson developers plan each lesson and make sure that the material is appropriate for the age and skill level of the student. Instructional designers build the activities by working with visual designers and medial specialists to choose the best way to present concepts and information. Writers and educators make sure that the content is accurate, engaging and appropriate.

Information architects analyze how people will use the online program, engineers design and build the software and systems that make the Online School run, and quality assurance specialists make sure that everything works properly.

Educational Advisory Committee

K12 has the benefit of having some of the best minds in education at its disposal.

"This committee is crucial to the development of the K12 curriculum," Fallon said.

"Its members possess an intimate understanding of effective teaching techniques and education trends. This has helped create programs that are not only content-rich, but also effective and engaging."

For more information about this program, visit www.k12.com.

Dulohery loses Olympic bronze in skeet shoot-off, Graves finishes 9th

By Tim Higgs
Army News Service

Sgt. 1st Class Shawn Dulohery lost a three-way shoot-off for a bronze medal and finished fifth in men's skeet shooting Aug. 22 in the 2004 Summer Olympic Games.

Sgt. 1st Class James "Todd" Graves finished in a six-way tie for ninth place in the two-day event at Markopoulo Olympic Shooting Centre.

Italy's Andrea Benelli prevailed in another shoot-off against silver medalist Marko Kempainen, who equaled the world record in qualification, to win the gold medal with a final score of 149. Cuba's Juan Miguel Rodriguez defeated Qatar's Nasser Al-Attiya and Dulohery in the shoot-off for the bronze medal with a 147 total.

"It was an exciting final; good to be in it," said Dulohery, 39, a member of the U.S. Army Marksmanship

Unit from Lee's Summit, Mo. "I wish for USA Shooting's sake and my sake that I would've won a medal but there's always the next one."

Dulohery nailed 122 of 125 targets in five qualification rounds, including a perfect 25 in his final stanza to reach the final.

He said he was too pumped up for the shoot-off.

"I just shot it too quick," he said of missing his sixth target in the shoot-off for third place. "I get quicker as the pressure builds. I'm a really, really high-anxiety person and I was pretty excited just to be in the finals."

Rodriguez downed 10 targets to Nasser's nine to claim the bronze.

Graves, 41, a USAMU shotgun shooter from Laurel, Miss., finished qualification with a score of 121, one target shy of the cutoff for the final.

"I knew I had to run 50 today," said Graves, who shot

24 of 25 targets in back-to-back rounds. "When I missed one in the first round and I saw how the wind was blowing, I

Browne finishes 12th in Olympic 10,000 meters

Oregon National Guardsman Capt. Dan Browne (Team USA No. 3235) leads the way in the 10,000 meters final of the 2004 Summer Olympic Games at Athens, Greece. Browne, a West Point graduate and former member of the U.S. Army World Class Athlete Program, finished 12th with a time of 28 minutes, 14.53 seconds.

Army News Service

Oregon National Guard Capt. Dan Browne challenged the Ethiopians and Kenyans Aug. 20 while running to a 12th-place finish in the men's 10,000-meter final in the 2004 Summer Olympic Games at Olympic Stadium.

On Aug. 29, Browne will run the marathon, the final athletics event of the Athens Games. He planned to use the 10,000 meters as a training precursor for the 26.2-mile trek but instead led several laps early and continued running full speed until the waning circuits to finish with a time of 28 minutes, 14.53 seconds.

In the end, however, Ethiopia's dazzling duo of Kenenisa Bekele and Sileshi Sihine lapped Browne and more than half the runners in the 24-man field.

Bekele won the gold medal with an Olympic record time of 27:05.10 and Sihine claimed the silver medal in 27:09.39. Zersenay Tadesse took the bronze medal with a national record time of 27:22.57 for Eritrea.

"I'm at that point of my career where I've done that whole sit behind the Kenyans and just let them control everything," Browne said of setting the early pace. "We were going easy so I decided to put myself in the mix. I wasn't afraid of leading for a little bit because you've got to test yourself. I think they know who I am now."

Team USA's Abdihakem Abdirahman finished 15th in 28:26.26. Dathan Ritzenhein, the other American entry, dropped out of the race. Browne, a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., and former member of the U.S. Army World Class Athlete Program, was pleased with his performance.

"I gave my best out there tonight," he said. "The heat might have made me pull back just a little bit, but at the same time, when I finished I was pretty tired. My calves got a little tight toward the end."

Browne, however, said he chose to not sprint at the end so as not to spoil the Ethiopians' moment as they lapped him to a thunderous roar from the crowd. His mind instead raced nine days into the future.

"My strength is actually my best asset right now, so I'm really looking forward to the marathon," Browne said. "I gave myself a little taper for this race so I feel good about that. I want to make it to the finish line [of the marathon]. This stadium is too beautiful not to make it."
