Health council launches website

By RACHEL PONDER
APG News

Aberdeen Proving Ground community members can now learn more about on-post health services offered by visiting the Community Health Promotion Council website.

The website launched last week and can be accessed by visiting the "Well Being" section of the garrison website: www.apg.army.mil/apghome/sites/local/.

The site addresses the five pillars of health—physical, emotional, social, family and spiritual life—and includes a toolbox with links to health topics like worksite wellness, physical fitness, substance abuse and survivor outreach.

The site's calendar of events will list health news and provide daily health screenings and other health-related opportunities.

Installation Health Promotion Officer Wendy LaRoche and Information Technology Specialist Michael Graziano collaborated to create the CHPC website.

"We wanted to provide health information in a central location—one-stop-shopping," LaRoche said.

LaRoche called the site user-friendly but said it is not serving its purpose if it doesn't provide the information and format that people want or need. She is urging community members to provide feedback and suggestions on how the installation's Community Health

Conservation measures in full effect during water main repair

By DEBORAH ELLIOTT
Garrison APG Public Affairs

While mandatory water conservation measures remain in effect at Aberdeen Proving Ground, APG North community members are urged to be especially vigilant this weekend.

On Saturday along Old Post Road the City of Aberdeen will begin repair on a leaking water main that supplies potable water to the Installation. APG residents are prohibited from:

- Washing down sidewalks, walkways, driveways, parking lots, tennis courts, or other hard-surfaced areas.
- Washing down buildings or structures for purpose other than immediate fire protection.
- Washing motor vehicles, motorbikes, boats, trailers, airplanes or other vehicles.
- Flushing gutters or permitting water to run or accumulate in any gutter or street.

Water can be used for landscaping, irrigation, dust suppression and hydrant flushing, but the amount should be reduced as much as possible, according to Dennis Overbay with the Directorate of Public Works' Engineering and Construction Division, APG.

"It is imperative during the water main repair that APG

To symbolize the shared missions of those in and out of uniform, Soldiers and civilians of the U.S. Army's Test and Evaluation Command, Developmental Test Command and Evaluation Center stand in shoulder-to-shoulder formation to witness the passing of ATEC colors during a change of responsibility ceremony at the command's new headquarters building Aug. 15.

ATEC Commander Maj. Gen. Genaro J. Dellarocco presided over the ceremony as Brig. Gen. John S. Regan assumed responsibility as deputy commander for evaluation from Brian Simmons, a Senior Executive Service civilian and current executive technical director for ATEC.

The leaders of ATEC umbrella units took part in the unique passing of the colors, which consisted of the AEC colors moving from AEC Command Sgt. Maj. Handy to Simmons to David Jimenez, director of AEC, to Dellarocco, who handed off to Regan, officially charging him with the duties of deputy commander, before Regan returned the colors to Handy.

Dellarocco praised all of his leaders. He said Simmons took charge in 2007 and noted that his technical ability has had a major impact on the command since then. He commended Jimenez, who led DTC for six months before taking over AEC, as being a "mover and a shaker. You couldn't

Army Career and Alumni Program: Supporting Soldier career success

The decision to transition out of uniform is as important as the initial decision to put it on. Soldiers deserve as much support at this critical point in their service as they do with earlier parts of their career. That is why the Army provides the Army Career and Alumni Program and is working to make ACAP even more effective.

ACAP delivers transition and job assistance services to Soldiers to support them in making informed career decisions. These services include pre-separation counseling, Veteran Affairs benefits briefings, and Department of Labor Transition Assistance Program workshops, which cover career planning, job searches, resume writing and interviewing. ACAP services are available to separating and retiring Active Component Soldiers, demobilizing Reserve and National Guard Soldiers, Family members, retirees, and Civilians affected by BRAC, reduction in force or Global Realignment.

In April 2010, the vice chief of staff of the Army directed a thorough review of ACAP, which included visits to ACAP centers and thousands of interviews with Soldiers and civilians. The study found that while Soldiers are allowed to use ACAP services up to two years prior to retirement or one year prior to separation, they do not always have leadership support in doing more than the minimum required by law, which is attending the pre-separation briefing no later than 90 days prior to separation. However, just meeting the letter of the law is too little, too late. The more Soldiers are able to use ACAP services, the more successful their transition.

Based on the study results and the vice chief of staff's guidance, over the next few months ACAP is implementing an enhanced 12-month transition program model focused on helping Soldiers develop an Individual Transition Plan and put it into action. Under this choice-based, results-oriented model, Soldiers will have the opportunity to spend up to 60-70 hours accessing ACAP resources, including the pre-separation briefing, the two-and-a-half day Transition Assistance Program workshop, the four-hour VA briefing, and individual counseling sessions. The TAP workshop is also being updated, to incorporate development of the Individual Transition Plan.

The 12-month timeframe is designed to minimize conflict with unit mission requirements and enable Soldiers to take full advantage of ACAP resources. About four out of 10 eligible Soldiers who start ACAP decide to reenlist or join the National Guard or Reserves, while others need to get a solid start preparing for the next phase of their careers, whether it is going to school, starting a new job or starting a business. New policy and guidance on the transition program will be issued in the first quarter of FY12.

The key to making ACAP as effective as possible is leader commitment. ACAP is a commander's program. Soldiers will take off the uniform at some point, whether through separation or retirement, and it is up to leaders to take care of them until the very last day. Taking care of Soldiers includes supporting their active participation in ACAP, and if a Soldier decides to separate, making sure no stigma is attached to their decision.

It is smart business to support Soldiers' use of ACAP. In FY10 the Army spent more than $500 million in unemployment compensation for veterans, a number expected to rise even higher in FY11. The Army is looking to reduce that amount by better preparing Soldiers to enter the civilian workforce.

More to the point, it is the right thing to do to support Soldiers' transition planning. Transition is stressful under the best of circumstances, and right now Soldiers are facing a tough job market. We have to equip our Soldiers to take the skills and values they learned in the Army and translate them into success in the next phase of their career. When Soldiers take off the uniform, we want them to know they made the right choice for themselves, their careers, and their families when they put it on in the first place. It's the least we can do for their service and sacrifices.

Women's Equality Day Observance

August 26th of each year is designated in the United States as Women's Equality Day. Instituted through legislation introduced by Representative Bella Abzug, Women's Equality Day was first established in 1971. The date commemorates the passage of the 19th Amendment, the Women's Suffrage Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which gave women full voting rights in 1920. It is a day on which, in the words of the Resolution, "the women of [the] United States are to be commended and supported in their organizations and activities."

The movement for women's suffrage in America began in earnest at the Seneca Falls Convention in 1848, when women drafted a Declaration of Sentiments proclaiming they had the same rights as men. In 1916, Jeannette Rankin of Montana became the first American woman elected to the United States House of Representatives. These women and many more of their ilk worked to ensure that future generations of women could realize the full promise of being American citizens.

The theme for this observance, "Celebrating Women's Right to Vote," continues to be relevant, for it speaks to the sweeping changes in the status of women in our Nation's history.

Today, American women are leaders in business, government, law, science, medicine, the arts, education, the military and many other fields. According to the U.S. Census Bureau's 2007 Survey of Business Owners, women-owned businesses account for nearly 30 percent of all privately held firms. Through vision, determination, and a strong work ethic, remarkable American women have broadened opportunities for themselves and women around the world.

During the month of August, the Aberdeen community will hold various events to recognize women's successes and to honor outstanding women. I encourage all military and civilian personnel to attend at least one of these educational programs as we honor our past heroines, acknowledge our present female role models, and seek to inspire the female leaders of the future.

Captain America returns to AAFES

AAFES Public Affairs

On the heels of its 116th anniversary, the Army & Air Force Exchange Service is once again joining forces with Marvel Comics to distribute free, military-exclusive comic books at its stores around the world.

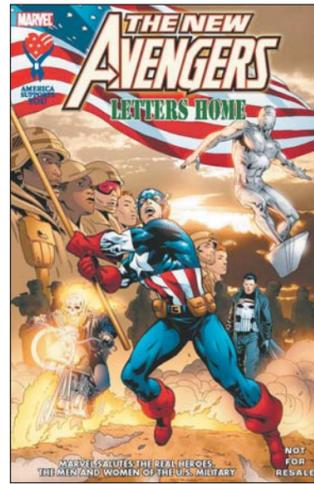

The 11th issue in the Exchange/Marvel series, titled "The First Avenger," revolves around kidnapped civilians who transform into super-strong creatures and attack small European villages. Captain America traces the unwitting bad guys to a remote castle in Symkaria where he finds a mad scientist in the midst of creating an army of "electric soldiers."

"It's hard to believe that this is already the 11th installment in the Exchange's free comic book series," said the Exchange's Senior Enlisted Advisor Chief Master Sgt. Jeffrey Helm. "Based on the enormous success and popularity of these special issues, I'm certain this one will be just as popular as the previous ten."

"The First Avenger" arrived exclusively at CONUS Exchanges in early August and is due at OCONUS facilities, including 56 locations in Operations New Dawn and Enduring Freedom, around the end of August.

"While we may work with costume-wearing heroes every day, it is a true honor to help create a comic book for the real life heroes of the U.S. Armed Forces," said the comic's editor, Bill Roseman.

"All of us involved salute the troops, thank them for their sacrifices every day that grant us the freedoms we enjoy, and hope they are entertained by the action-packed adventures of the one and only, shield-slinging super-Soldier known as Captain America."

Edgewood youth wins big at Farm Fair

APG South (Edgewood) summer camper Elizabeth Betts, 10, sits next to her winning entry, a mixed media sunflower painting, during the summer camp's visit to the Harford County Farm July 28. Betts is the grand champion of the Harford County 4-H Fine Arts Contest. Her sunflower artwork beat out more than 170 entries from children in the junior, intermediate and senior categories. "It is very impressive for a junior to win this award," said Cynthia Warner, a Harford County 4-H Educator. "Usually the award goes to a senior." Betts, who created the mixed media piece for a school assignment, said that she used the artwork of Vincent van Gogh as her inspiration. "I am surprised at what beautiful and inspired drawings she does," said Betts' father, Lt. Col. Eric Betts, PEO-C3T. "I have a hard time making stick figures. She has really been a self starter when it comes to art and I am proudest of that."

Free books for active duty under G.I. Bill changes

By C. TODD LOPEZ
Army News Service

Active duty Soldiers and their spouses will soon be able to get funding for books and supplies as part of the Post-9/11 G.I. Bill.

Beginning Oct. 1, active duty members and their spouses can receive up to $1,000 for books and supplies, per academic year, as part of the Post-9/11 G.I. Bill. Active duty members were not previously eligible for the books and supplies funding.

Additional benefits to service members and veterans include reimbursement of fees for exams used for admission to colleges. Such exams include the ACT, GMAT or SAT.

Changes to the bill also mean reimbursement for more than one licensing or certification examination. Additionally, there are expanded benefits for non-college degree programs, on-the-job training, apprenticeship training, flight programs and correspondence training.

New enrollees in the program will also find that if they are entitled to the housing allowance (active duty and their spouses are not) they can receive that benefit while enrolled in certificate or other non-college degree programs or even long-distance learning.

Those enrolled in distance learning could receive up to 50 percent of the housing allowance provided to those who enrolled in on-campus education programs. The housing allowance for those in resident training is now prorated based on a student's course load. A student taking a course load that is approximately 80 percent of what a school deems "full time," would receive 80 percent of the housing allowance. Housing allowance for an in-resident student taking a full load is equivalent to the basic housing allowance for an E-5 with dependants.

Additional changes to benefits under the bill include elimination of housing payments for even short gap periods between enrollments. In the past, during the less-than-one-month breaks between semesters, beneficiaries could continue to receive housing payments.

Keith Wilson, director of education service at the Department of Veterans Affairs, said while VA is working to keep students informed of the changes, students will have to practice some "sound financial management" on their own to make rent payments during the short non-enrollment periods between semesters.

Wilson pointed out that under the Post-9/11 G.I. Bill, beneficiaries have never received housing allowance during the three-month summer break.

Wilson added that, when beneficiaries did receive housing payment between enrollments, they were actually burning up part of their benefits. The bill provides for 36 months of benefits. If a student was getting just housing benefits for the nearly one-month period between the fall and spring semesters, for instance, that would burn up a month of benefits.

The new change in law also affects payment eligibility, and now accounts for active duty service performed by National Guard members under Title 32.

A summary of recent changes to the Post-9/11 G.I. Bill can be found at http://gibill.va.gov/benefits/post\_911\_gibill/Post911\_changes.html.

Community urged to be watchful, support antiterrorism campaign

APG News

In the shadow of the 10th anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, the Department of the Army designated August as Antiterrorism Awareness Month.

The campaign was created to instill and sustain heightened awareness and vigilance to prevent and protect military communities and critical resources from acts of terrorism, according to Rick DeOlivieras of the Garrison Emergency Operations Center.

“This is one part of an effort to encourage vigilant reporting and education,” he said. “The keystone of antiterrorism is having a safe place to do our jobs.”

DeOlivieras said that while activities from terrorist organizations outside the continental United States, such as Al Qaeda, are constantly monitored, the threat of domestic terror is a harsh reality.

Examples of this include the 2009 Fort Hood shooting in which Army Maj. Nidal Malik Hasan is charged with 13 counts of premeditated murder and 32 counts of attempted murder after firing on Soldiers and civilians in a post-out processing center. And there is the incident earlier this year in which AWOL Army Pfc. Naser Jason Abdo from Fort Campbell, Ky., was arrested in the Fort Hood area after making suspicious gun purchases and subsequently admitting to plans to bomb local restaurants frequented by local Soldiers. Both of the accused claimed to follow notorious Al Qaeda cleric Anwar al-Awlaki.

“With the approaching 9-11 anniversary, it’s more important than ever that people take action about suspicious activity,” DeOlivieras said. “Recent information has found that anniversaries are important to those who mean us harm. They want to make them significant. Therefore, we can’t let our guard down.”

DeOlivieras said to ensure the highest protection level, “it is essential that we become vigilant watchers. Observe and report anything out of place so law enforcement can make the determination.”

According to a DA memorandum, this means leaders, Soldiers, civilian employees and Family members should work to gain a better understanding of key AT concepts, principles, roles, responsibilities and suspicious activity reporting procedures.

One way to learn more is to visit the Army iWATCH website. iWATCH Army is a nationwide version of Neighborhood Watch and was approved for adoption throughout the Army by its senior leaders.

Essentially, iWATCH allows Soldiers, Family members, civilian employees and retirees to protect places where they live, work and play by being watchful and helping identify and prevent potential terrorist acts.

DeOlivieras said community members should take time to review upcoming AT awareness messages and familiarize themselves with information on Army iWATCH posters located on bulletin boards and banners around the installation.

While terrorism is a concern for the U.S. Armed Forces, it is not military-centric. According to www.army.mil, in July of 2010, USA Today published the results of a Gallup poll showing that the American general public collectively worries about terrorism.

The poll showed the lowest recorded level of worry (34 percent) since August 2004. The response was down sharply from the all-time high of 59 percent recorded in October 2001, just after the Sept. 11 attacks.

“With the approaching 9-11 anniversary, it’s more important than ever that people take action about suspicious activity. Recent information has found that anniversaries are important to those who mean us harm.”

Rick DeOlivieras

Garrison Emergency Operations Center

The poll found that 30 percent of responders said they are not too worried about being a victim of terrorism and 34 percent said they are not at all worried.

Studies further show that U.S. service members and military installations are often a preferred target for both foreign and domestic terrorists.

DeOlivieras said the most important factor to remember is to report suspicious or unusual activities to law enforcement personnel immediately. The role of emergency managers and responders—the Directorate of Emergency Services fire, police and special reaction teams—is to respond, mitigate and resolve, he said.

Suspicious activities can be reported online through the iWATCH site, called in to the national alert phone number, 1-800-11-SPY, or simply dial 911.

DeOlivieras said community awareness is the best line of defense when it comes to preventing terrorism. He noted that the home-grown, or “lone wolf” threat continues to increase, so iWATCHers should look for suspicious behavior by individuals as well as groups.

“People know their neighborhoods and work environments,” he said. “They know when something or someone doesn’t belong. We all have a responsibility to help ensure our military and civilian communities are safe places to work and live and Antiterrorism Awareness is most successful when everyone is involved.”

To encourage training and awareness, commanders are encouraged to use products available on the Army Antiterrorism Enterprise Portal residing on Army Knowledge Online (<https://www.us.army.mil/suite/page/605757>). Products include posters, brochures and public-service videos for both iWATCH and general anti-terrorism awareness.

It's not too late: Rehoboth Beach beckons!

Aaaaah! The sun... the surf...the sand.

There is absolutely nothing that compares to a day at the beach, except, perhaps, a weekend at the beach, or a week or two at the beach. The more time you spend there, the more the sights and sounds and sunrises soothe your soul.

Getting there – that's the easy part.

About a two-hour drive from Aberdeen Proving Ground is Delaware's Rehoboth Beach, a sparkling shore community where visitors flock during summer months. Rehoboth Beach is three miles north of Dewey Beach, a decidedly more "college age" beach. Farther south is Maryland's sprawling Ocean City. Though distinctively different experiences, all are great getaways for a weekend, a week, or longer.

Rehoboth Beach is sometimes called "The Nation's Summer Capital" as it is a frequent summer vacation destination for denizens of Washington, D.C., as well as visitors from Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Vacationers come for many reasons, and Rehoboth Beach's charm, artistic appeal, and nightlife are for all to enjoy.

A recently rebuilt boardwalk beautifully frames the beach. Restaurants for every palate and pocketbook abound. There are arcades for kids of all ages, T-shirt shops, salt water taffy, ice cream and hot dog stands, and pubs and bistros for older folks.

The town holds several annual festivals, including the Sea Witch Festival, the Rehoboth Beach Independent Film Festival and the Rehoboth Beach Autumn Jazz Festival.

Dogfish Head Brewery's original brewpub is on the town's main strip, Rehoboth Avenue. The location is a popular destination for American craft beer enthusiasts.

Biking and walking trails and free weekend concerts at the gazebo on Rehoboth Avenue provide great recreation and entertainment values.

Though famous for its beaches, boardwalk and shops, Rehoboth Beach is also known as one of the mid-Atlantic coast's popular gay and lesbian getaways because of the large number of gay-owned and operated businesses and because of the gay-frequented stretch of beach near Queen Street, known as Poodle Beach.

According to Wikipedia, "Rehoboth is a name of Biblical appellation, meaning "place [or space] for all". Rehoboth appears three times in the Old Testament as, variously, a well dug by Isaac (Wadi er-Ruheibeh) (Gen. 26:22), a city on the Euphrates River (Gen. 36:37; 1 Chr. 1:48), and one of the cities of Asshur (Gen. 10:11)."

The name had obvious appeal to the religious founders of the city, as it was called the Rehoboth Beach Camp Meeting Association by the Rev. Robert W. Todd, of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church of Wilmington, Del. The church claimed the site for Methodist camp meetings, similar to resorts on the New Jersey shore, such as Ocean Grove.

The city was founded in 1873 as The Camp Meeting Association disbanded in 1881, and in 1891, the location was incorporated by the Delaware General Assembly as Henlopen City, but was soon renamed Rehoboth Beach.

Rehoboth Beach is a great vacation destination, right in APG's backyard.

APG's active duty troops, Family members, retirees, DoD civilians, and contract employees are encouraged to participate in the community needs assessment survey, which will be distributed via email and accessible online at www.apg.army.mil.

Nuclear disablement team proves it is prepped to assume national mission

By MAJ. CAROL MCCLELLAND
20th Support Command (CBRNE) Public Affairs

A Nuclear Disablement Team from 20th Support Command (CBRNE), Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., proved their readiness during an exercise that included live radiation July 24 – 28 at Idaho National Labs.

Nuclear Disablement Teams, or NDTs, are units made up of nuclear experts trained and equipped to disable nuclear weapons of mass destruction infrastructure; package, transport and safeguard nuclear and/or radiological materials that pose a threat to friendly forces; collect and transport samples of radiological material or nuclear WMD intelligence for forensic analysis; and conduct sensitive site exploitation operations on nuclear sites. The NDTs pull six-month rotations as part of the National Technical Nuclear Forensics task force which is made up of many different agencies including the Department of Energy, Defense Threat Reduction Agency, U.S. Strategic Command Center for Combating Weapons of Mass Destruction, Air Force Technical Application Center and the intelligence community, among others.

The exercise, held at the Idaho National Laboratory complex outside of the city of Idaho Falls, took place at a nearby forward operating base with limited facilities in a desert environment. Surrounded only by scrub vegetation, NDT 3's training led them to this exercise, the final validation test before assuming the mission from NDT 2 this fall.

"The exercise went very well especially considering this is the first time we've used real radiation and not stimulant materials," said Lt. Col. Michael Nelson, a nuclear engineer and team chief of NDT 3. He said the team went to the collection site and acquired samples using radiation detection equipment before bringing the samples back to the forward operating base. After turning the samples over to Department of Energy experts for analyzing, they peeled off layers of protective clothing and went through screening to ensure radioactive contamination was removed.

These specialized teams are made up

Nuclear Disablement Team 3 members, Maj. Bryan Potts (standing), Capt. Jay Ross (on phone) and Maj. Leif Hansen plan a mission for live radiation during the team's validation exercise July 24 – 28 at the Idaho National Laboratory. The exercise marks the first time live radiation was used during this type of exercise.

of officers and non-commissioned officers in nuclear science, health physics and chemical fields. Their primary functions are command and control, planning, and running the decontamination lines. The team is augmented by Soldiers who have other skill sets like communications, vehicle maintenance or sample collecting.

Sgt. Ricardo Herrera, a Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear specialist with the 22nd Chemical Battalion (Technical Escort), is one of 11 people from his company augmenting the NDT to make up their total team of 22.

"We finally got to rely on our pieces of equipment and we're even more confident," the 27-year-old from Round Mountain, Nev. said about the different kinds of equipment used to detect alpha, beta, gamma, or neutron radiation. This time, rather than having someone next to them stating the equipment was calibrated, the readings actually showed what was being detected.

After gaining certification with this exercise, NDT 3 still has more internal training missions and another exercise ahead that will refine the team's procedures and techniques before they assume the NTNF mission in October.

"I think my team is well prepared and we're excited we got selected to do this mission," Herrera said. "It's a once in a lifetime opportunity; something we can look back on and say that we did."

ATEC deputy looking forward to mission

ask for better experience," he said. And he called Regan "the right man at the right time."

"We'll take it to the next level," he told Regan. "Welcome to APG."

Simmons thanked Dellarocco, Jimenez for their support and his wife who stood by him throughout his 31-year career.

"I leave you in great hands with great leaders," he said to the ATEC workforce.

Jimenez thanked Simmons for his service and added that he felt fortunate to lead the AEC workforce.

"AEC has faced challenges and will continue to do so," he said. "This is just one example of this outstanding organization."

Addressing the ATEC and Aberdeen Proving Ground "Families," Regan called "the beautiful building with the spectacular Chesapeake Bay behind it a fitting background for this event."

He thanked the 10th Mountain Division Band for traveling from Fort Drum, N.Y., to provide music for the ceremony, the salute battery from the 22d Chemical Battalion for presenting a Howitzer salute and Dellarocco for providing the opportunity and leadership.

"I look forward to giving you my utmost in my new role as we serve our Army and our warriors in the field," he said.

Adding that the passing of the colors among Soldiers and civilians was indicative of the ATEC organization, he offered his thanks to employees for "ensuring our warriors in the field get the weapon systems they require and deserve."

"We must continue to work together becoming more efficient. I promise to always lead you and to always keep your welfare in mind. This is a great headquarters building for a great workforce with an important and enduring mission," he said. "I look forward to working with each professional as we serve our nation. Army Strong."

Residents asked to water wisely

North maintains a consolidated water conservation effort," said Overbay. "This will ensure that the APG water tower, in conjunction with the Swan Meadow interconnection, can satisfy our water demands."

Preparations to fix the leaking water main will begin Friday when the City of Aberdeen is scheduled to dig test pits for the 20-inch diameter waterline. The city also plans to pre-cut new pipe and stage material along the repair route.

The southbound lane on Old Post Road will close Saturday at 6 a.m. to begin repairs, which are expected to be complete within 10 hours.

Overbay said once the repairs are complete, community members should continue to observe the conservation measures, which were originally established post-wide on Aug. 8. The original measures were put in place when APG switched from using the Chapel Hill to the Harford County treatment plant as its primary source of water for the installation.

Overbay said the switch was made to ensure APG's water needs can be met while other repairs on the water infrastructure are made.

For more information, contact Overbay at 410-306-1844.

New website seeks feedback

Promotion Council can improve the website.

LaRoche said the council is made up of representatives from many of the installation's supported organizations who are dedicated to helping the community lead healthier and more productive lives. She said she's hoping to see more engagement from many of the other tenants.

"The council is not another stove-pipe initiative," said LaRoche. "It is a collaborative effort by key individuals who are dedicated to ensuring the health and well-being of the installation."

Community members are encouraged to visit the website to take the CHPC health needs survey and give their input on the health services currently offered at APG and what issues are most important to them.

LaRoche said feedback from the community in every form, including the survey, is necessary to provide the best services.

"We want to make sure we are identifying the needs of the community, and providing those services," she said. "For example, this survey will tell us if there is a great need for more tobacco cessation classes or blood pressure screenings."

The CHPC will host a Health Fair Sept. 21 at the APG South (Edgewood) recreation center. The fair will include health screenings, give-aways, seated massages, and information on a variety of topics including diabetes, asthma, osteoporosis, the healing power of laughter and more.

"We are excited about this health fair especially with all the support that was received by the different insurers," LaRoche said. "This is a great time to receive free screenings and get answers to questions regarding your health insurance plan."

For more information about the CHPC, contact LaRoche at wendy.laroche@us.army.mil or 410-417-2312.
